

Traineeship at the University of Innsbruck

Department/Office	Position Title & Purpose	Working Tasks (e.g. working for project XY, research assistance, organizing events, ...)	Qualifications & Skills (e.g. field of study, level of study, language skills, ...)	Facts (e.g. duration, working hours, financial contribution, ...)	Application (e.g. application documents, contact person, deadline, ...)
Department of Botany https://www.uibk.ac.at/botany/units_research_groups/biodiversity.html.en	Internship in plant evolutionary biology	Work in the frame of two projects exploring polyploid evolution of Angiosperms in the Eastern Alps. The trainees will conduct lab work (flow cytometric genome size and ploidy level estimation, DNA extraction as well as routine lab work at the Department) and will take part in sampling campaigns in the Eastern Alps if desired.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Basic knowledge of molecular lab procedures (obtained in the frame of Biology studies or similar) - Good knowledge of English and/or German - Good physical condition for field work campaigns in the Alps (if the trainee wishes to join) 	The minimum duration of the traineeship is two months, but also longer periods are possible. Starting date: 1 st of July 2022 (also later is possible) Working hours: 35 hrs per week Financial contribution: a modest financial contribution of 200 Euro per month can be offered along with the Aurora scholarship	Applications should be submitted at least one month before the start of the traineeship to Božo Frajman (bozo.frajman@uibk.ac.at), including a CV and a short motivation letter describing the traineeship-relevant skills.